

Module 1-1 - Teaching your first class

Authors: Tracey Frayne and Natalie Brown

Year: 2017

Natalie Brown

Welcome to this precursor module about 'Teaching Your First Class'. I'm Natalie Brown from the University of Tasmania.

Tracy Frayne

And I'm Tracy Frayne from the University of Western Australia.

Regardless of your experience in teaching, preparing for the initial class of your unit is vital. Your preparation and approach to student learning is the key to getting everyone off to a strong start. Students will notice your enthusiasm and be more likely to engage in their learning. In this module we identify and provide activities for you to explore strategies for teaching your first class that you will be able to use straight away.

Natalie Brown

If this is your very first class in Higher Education, we hope that this module will increase your confidence in being prepared for meeting your students for the very first time.

This resource is part of the Contemporary Approaches to University Teaching Course available through the Canvas Network under a CC Attribution Share Alike license.