MEGAN BASSANETTI: The pitch night is a culmination of the three months that we've had in the Accelerator Program. And really, it's a great moment to celebrate all the work that we've done, the five different companies, and see how far everyone's progressed.

STEVEN PERCY: Five startups from Swinburne's Accelerator Program all pitch their businesses. We had 5 minutes to talk about what we did, what our businesses do, our business model, how we're going to make revenue, and what our plans are for the future.

PRASH PUSPANATHAN: The key benefit that we were trying to present today was what the accelerator program has allowed us to turn, what was geeks in a lab working on an idea and turned that into a venture that was actually commercializable and scalable, and able to reach people.

WERNER VAN DE MERWE: Tonight is the culmination of a whole set of offerings that we have for entrepreneurs at whatever stage of their journey. Whether it's proof of concept funding, whether it is pre-seed, whether it is the accelerator that gets them on their way. We've got the full spectrum of support functions for our entrepreneurs.
